Questions

1. This story is written by an “outsider,” someone not directly involved in the events. What is the author’s purpose in writing this story? Hint: The answer is not “to share this story”; it’s deeper than that. You must choose at least one aim from the list and you may add additional aims as appropriate.

-Analyze and interpret, -Take a stand, -Evaluate and judge,
-Propose a solution, -Seek common ground
2. What is the thematic message of this book? Remember: Theme is not the same as a topic. The theme should be written as a statement of belief such as, “For success, attitude is as important as ability.”
3. Tone is the author’s attitude about the subject, and the author creates tone not just by what s/he says, but how s/he says it. What is this author’s tone? Describe his/her writing style and how you believe it helps create the tone.
4. Determine one of the following:
Does the writer want the audience to...
...make a judgment about the past?
...understand a statement about the present? or
...decide a course of action for the future?
5. Did reading this book influence your thinking on the theme, and if so, how? If not, why not?

Requirements:

1. Responses should be typed in MLA format (heading, header, font, and margins). You may single-space the paragraphs to save space, but please double-space between them.
